DANIEL P. MOEN NAMED EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT, CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER AT TRINITY HEALTH - NEW ENGLAND

(SPRINGFIELD, Mass. Jan. 8, 2016) - Daniel P. Moen has been appointed Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer for Trinity Health - New England, the parent company of Saint Francis Hospital and Medical Center and Mount Sinai Rehabilitation Hospital in Hartford, Connecticut, Johnson Memorial Hospital in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, and Sisters of Providence Health System (SPHS) and other subsidiaries.

In his new role, Moen will be responsible for maximizing the operating performance of Trinity Health - New England and play a key role in influencing strategic direction and market presence of each of the local hospitals within the regional health ministry.

“The role of executive vice president, chief operating officer, is an extremely important position for the success of Trinity Health – New England,” said Christopher M. Dadlez, FACHE, President and Chief Executive Officer of Trinity Health - New England. “Dan Moen is a highly-respected, experienced executive who has managed complex hospital operations for many years. His proven track record and accomplishments will provide the new regional health ministry with the leadership and talent needed to secure a successful future.”

“I am honored to serve in this important role,” said Moen. “The facilities that comprise Trinity Health - New England share common goals regarding innovation and transformation of care delivery to foster high-quality, efficiency, access to services and cost containment. This commitment, coupled with strategic opportunities for growth, allows us to respond to the needs of those who seek our care and service in Connecticut and Massachusetts.”

For the past five years, Moen has served as president and chief executive officer of SPHS. He has over 33 years of senior leadership experience in health care in Massachusetts; for 28 of these years he has served as a chief executive officer. He is succeeded at Mercy Medical Center by Scott Wolf D.O., MPH, FACP.

Prior to joining SPHS, Moen served as president and chief executive officer of Heywood Hospital, a 125-bed full-service community hospital based in Gardner, Massachusetts. Before to joining Heywood Hospital, he served for 10 years in progressively responsible leadership positions with Holden Hospital in Holden, Massachusetts, including two years as its president and chief executive officer.

Moen earned a Master in Health Administration from Clark University/University of Massachusetts Medical School, a Bachelor of Science in Management from Worcester State College, and an Associate in Science in Radiologic Technology from Quinsigamond Community College, all in Worcester.
