Sharon, Conn. — August 25, 2022 — Helping to expand primary care access across Sharon Hospital’s region, Dr. Jonathon Keith Joseph will join Nuvance Health Medical Practice’s primary care office in Sharon, Conn.

Joseph is a board-certified internal medicine and pediatrics physician who brings more than 20 years of healthcare experience, most recently serving as the Medical Director of the AIDS Healthcare Foundation in the Bronx, NY.

He brings a passion for preventive health and patient education for patients of all ages.

“The way we deliver and grow primary care access in rural communities is shifting, but together we can bridge community need with modern healthcare practices to support your health well into the future,” Joseph said. “I am excited to begin this journey and meet members of the region.”

Prior to his role at the AIDS Healthcare Foundation, Joseph served as Chief Medical Officer of Harlem United in New York City and a physician at CityMD, Lutheran Medical Center, among several other establishments across the Northeast.

He earned his medical degree at Harvard Medical School with training at Brigham and Women’s and Children’s Hospital in Boston, followed by an infectious disease fellowship at Columbia University Medical Center in New York.

“Expanding primary care is a crucial component of our work to ensure Sharon Hospital’s vibrant future,” said Dr. Cornelius Ferreira, Nuvance Health’s System Chair of Primary Care. “We know Dr. Joseph’s expertise will make an excellent addition to our team.”
