Tuesday, April 20, 2021
Webinar, 12:00 p.m. – 1:00 p.m.

PROUD

PARENTS RECOVERING FROM OPIOID USE DISORDERS

This virtual educational activity is jointly provided by AXIS Medical Education and The Connecticut Hospital Association in collaboration with the Connecticut Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services

Target audience: Physicians, nurses, social workers, quality professionals, risk managers, healthcare executives and all healthcare professionals working with women and families impacted by trauma and addiction

Description: This presentation will review the inpatient management of infants with neonatal abstinence syndrome and the transition to outpatient care. We will touch on the long-term outcomes for infants with neonatal abstinence syndrome, possible interventions and the need for further study.

Learning Objectives: At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be better able to:

- 1) Describe the different inpatient approaches to the management of infants with Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS).
- 2) Describe the potential long-term effects of NAS.
- 3) Describe the potential outpatient interventions to treat infants with NAS.

Recording: This activity will be recorded and archived for future participation.

YOUR FACULTY:

Matthew Grossman, MD, Quality and Safety Officer, Yale New Haven Children's Hospital Matthew Grossman, MD graduated from SUNY Stony Brook School of Medicine in 2003 and completed his pediatric residency at Yale New Haven Children's Hospital (YNHCH) in 2006.
